

Strong ideas in wood

More and more architects and builders are discovering the ecologically sound building material: wood. The reasons are obvious: short construction time, long-lasting durability, good heat insulation characteristics, and freedom of design characterize this building material.

If you have special requirements for wood products, or are looking for new solutions to individual problems, we, with our expert knowledge, are the right partner

We manufacture our own profiling tools, which means that we can meet nearly every customer need quickly and economically. Ask us if you want to know something about ecologically sound, wood products from sustainable forestry.

We look forward to hearing your wishes and delivering you...

...strong ideas in wood!

